How to speak dragon tongue skyrim

The UESPWiki - Your source for The Elder Scrolls since 1995The ancient Dragon Language is the language used by dragons. Text in the Dragon Language is found on walls in ancient dungeons and on burial grounds.[1] The runes used for writing the language are described in the Dragon Alphabet article. With sufficient understanding, certain words can be incanted to produce magical effects such as conjuring fire, frost, or wind, slowing time, or pushing an enemy away. This ability is known as the Thu'um and is an inborn talent of Dragons and Dragonborns.[2] Dragonlings, which are found around the Iliac Bay area, are unrelated to Dragons.[3] These oversized lizards have their own language known as Dragonish,[4] though the relation, if any, of their language to the Dragon Language spoken by actual Dragons is unknown. Grammar[edit] The language is structurally similar to English, with three exceptions: it has no equivalent to English's apostrophes, it tends to place prepositional phrases earlier in sentences, and verb tense is often ignored.[UOL 1] To make a word plural, the last letter of the singular word is repeated and followed by an "e". For example, the plural form of "kel" (an Elder Scroll) is "kelle". The singular possessive ("my", "your", "his", or "her") is formed by adding the letter "i" to the end of the word, except when the word ends in "ii", in which case an "I" is appended. The plural possessive ("our" or "their") is formed by adding the letter "u". To indicate a perfect verb form (as in "has silenced"), the letters "aan" are added to the end of the word. The language makes heavy use of compound words, and unlike most real languages has the head (i.e. the categorical part that contains the basic meaning) appearing first in most cases. For example, "Zeymahzin" (Companion) consists of the words "Zeimah" (Brother) and "Zin" (Honor) and should be understood as "Honor-Brother" instead of the literal order of "Brother-Honor". Words in parentheses (like in the example shown here) will reference connotations or synonyms.

Zol mul[23] Stronger (literally: Most strong) Zoor drun qalos[21] "Myth made manifest" (Literally: Legend Bring Touch) Zu'u koraav[21] "I see" Names[edit] Dragon names are typically formed of three monosyllabic words that, as a whole, may be rendered as a shout. Each dragon name is unique, and so dragons are able to use these shouts to address each other across vast distances. While dragon names are easily separated into their word components, translating them as a whole is another matter. Dragon names can be translated into phrases, such as the name Odahviing (literally: Snow-Hunter-Wing), which was converted into a coherent phrase; "Winged Snow-Hunter". If other names were translated in the same way, it can be extrapolated that Boziikkodstrun would be "Bold Storm-Wielder" or that Sahlokniir would be "Phantom Sky-Hunter". There is also the case where a mortal can be granted a Dovahzin (Dragon Name), by a dragon who believes they have earned it and it is considered a great honor. Two examples of these are Ahkahtuz (Hunter-Pride-Blade) and Toshrakhat.[21] Dragon Priests also usually have names in the dragon language, although often only two syllables long instead of three. Dragon names that can be translated include: Ahbiilok: Hunter-Blue-Sky Alduin: Destroyer-Devour-Master Bahlokdaan: Wrath-Sky-Doom (Bah-Lok-Daan) or Hunger-Doom (Bahlok-Daan) Boziikkodstrun: Boldly-Wield-Storm Dukaanfisot: Dishonor-The-White Durnehviir: Curse-Never-Dying Grahkrindrog: Battle-Courageous-Lord Joorahmaar: Mortal-Hunter-Terror Kaalgrontidaan: Cold-Maw-Doom Krosulhah: Sorcerer-Day-Mind Kruziikrel: Ancient-Dominate Laatvulon: Last-Night (Laat-Vu-Lon) or Last-Dawn-Fist (Laat-Vul-On) Lokkestiiz: Sky-Tempest-Ice Maarselok: Terror-Of-Sky Mirmulnir: Strong-Serve-Hunt Naaslaarum: Tooth-Water-Twin Nahagliiv: Fury-Burn-Wither Nahfahlaar: Fury-Shining Odahviing: Snow-Hunter-Wing Paarthurnax: Ambition-Overlord-Cruelty Relonikiv: Dominate-Enlightenment Sahlokniir: Phantom-Sky-Hunt Sahrotaar: Mighty-Servant/Slave (Sahrot-Aar) or Phantom-Word-Servant/Slave (Sah-Rot-Nax) Shulkunaak: Sun-Moonlight-Guide Thurvokun: Overlord-Shadow Vahlokzin: Spring-Rise/Sky-Honor (Vah-Lok-Zin) or Guardian-Honor (Vahlok-Zin) Viinturuth: Shine-Hammer-Rage Vithrelnaak: Serpent-Domination-Eat Voslaarum: Claw-Water-Twin Vuljotnaak: Dark-Maw-Eat Vulthuryol: Dark-Overlord-Fire Yolnahkriin: Fire-Vengeance (Yol-Nahkriin) or Fire-Fury-Slaughter (Yol-Nah-Kriin) Yahgrond: Seek-Bind-Devour Dragon names that are as yet untranslated include: Debdjen Numinex Papré Skakmat Note that these names are not necessarily real Dragon language names. In the same way that Nahfahlaar had imperialized his name as Nafaalilargus when he worked for the Empire, it is likely that dragons who act in the employ of humans (such as Papré for the battlemage Samar Starlover, or Skakmat for the mystic Nulfaga) prefer not to use dragon names during their employment. Debdjen is mentioned only in a work considered historical fiction, and Numinex in legends considered distorted and inconsistent. Locations[edit] The following are locations whose names are translated. Ahroldan: Old Hroldan[13] Ahrolsedovah: Hill-of-Dragons[13] Bromjunaar: North-King-Slave[13] (Direct Translation) Hillgrundhofkah: Hillgrund's Steading[13] Quethsegol Ahrol: Granite Hill[13] Notes[edit] Dovahzul is a common community-made term for the Dragon Language.
